1875 Census states that Mary L, widow, and her daughters, Mary L, Amelia and Sarah, live with her in Brooklyn with a cousin

Alfred Beck Guion (b. 1853) and the following two grandchildren. Either Alvah had a son, these children belong to one of the daughters and was given the name Guion, or they are incorrectly labeled grandchildren.

1880 Census refer to Carrie and William as being Alvah & Mary's children. Alfred Beck Guion is their nephew, a stockbroker in NY. 1900 & 1910 Census, sisters Mary L and Amelia, still live together, William's name is William H. Wilson.

-- CARRIE GUION [b. 1869

-- WILLIAM GUION [b. 1872

NOTE THE FOLLOWING INDIANA GUION'S HAVE BEEN PLACED HERE AS A LOGICAL SEQUENCE TO THIS LINE OF BIRTHS AND DUE TO THE RELATIONSHIP OF THOMAS GUION ALSO MOVING TO INDIANA; HOWEVER IT IS UNPROVEN THAT GEORGE DESCENDS FROM JONATHAN & PHEBE; Census Records for George's children say he was born in NY (rather than MA).

Note: Lounsbury m. a Miner whose Dau married a Guion (page 3)

There are several Guin/Guinn in Indianapolis during this time period, which has caused some of them to be listed in family genealogies as descendants from the Guion's of New York; it is more likely they originate from the Guinn's of Virginia whose progenitor was John Guin, b. 1707 in Augusta, VA whom some say was the son of John Gwynn, b.1670.

Revolutionary War Reference: Col. Dangerfield, who with Brig. Gen. Andrew Lewis, marched to York, Virginia, then on to the mainland overlooking Guinn's Island to defend the position. While at Guinn's Island they built breastworks and artillery positions and brought the British under fire when they landed on the island. Firebombs burned three of the British ships and after about two (2) months the rest of the ships sailed south. After some time the regiment went into winter quarters at Williamsburg.

g. BENJAMIN GUION [b. Jan 10, 1777 – d. circa 1831] Lives in N.Y. in 1815 – Read Following Note

(As of May, 2012 I have removed the family line of Benjamin and Hannah Bonte from this tree and placed it under David Guion found in the “Guyon” genealogy also found on the same page of my website. There is much confusion whether there even was a Benjamin, son of this David. According to the Bonte (Banta) genealogy records Benjamin is the youngest son of David, which would be the case in the other lineage but since finding a Paul, son of David, born in 1778, it would not be true here; however, it could very well be that Paul is also in the incorrect lineage. With research to prove otherwise, I will replace this family line, but for now, there appears stronger evidence that this Benjamin belongs in the other lineage.)

h. PAUL GUION [b. 1778 – d. Sept 12, 1845] Son of David & Esther

- C. LOUIS a/k/a LEWIS GUION (GUYON) (JR) [b. 1688 – d. 1731] Blacksmith from Eastchester; Owner of 8 slaves; Son of Louis & Thomasse;
Oath of Abjuration Aug 16, 1715 (sale bill: Jan 19, 1737 - 73 acre farm with brick house, orchard, timberland and salt meadow sold by son-in-laws Charles Vincent & Charles Johnston)

In the name of God, Amen, the 28 October, 1731. I, LEWIS GUYON, of East Chester, being sick and weak. I leave to my wife 2/3 of personal estate after payment of debts and funeral charges. I leave to my daughter Mary, wife of John Alberson, £18. To my daughter Leah, wife of Philip Pinckney, £20. To my daughter Esther, when of age, £50, and to my daughters Isabell, Margaret, and Susanah, to each £50 when of age. I leave to my wife Dinah, the use of all lands and houses in Eastchester, Westchester, and New Rochelle, so long as she remains my widow. After the death of my wife I leave to my eldest son, Lewis Guyon, all my lands in Eastchester and Westchester, except 3 acres of salt meadow lying at Hutchinson's, in Eastchester. I leave to my son, Daniel Guyon, all my lands in New Rochelle, and the 3 acres of salt meadow. I make my wife Dinah, and my brothers Isaac and Hinman Guyon, executors. Witnesses, Joseph Fowler, Joshua Tompkins, Roger Barton. Proved in Westchester, December 4, 1731.

Struck down by the sword of Col. Smith of the Patriot Army; Young Gilbert was ordered to shoe the horse of Col. Smith at the family blacksmith shop. It was Sunday and Gilbert refused. The officer drew his sword and struck Gilbert to the ground. This barbarous act forever changed the allegiance of the Vincent family. Elijah Vincent took a commission with the British army. The Vincent homestead was later called "Halsey House" and was used as the Capitol of the U.S. for six months during 1797 when Philadelphia ran rampant with yellow fever. During this time President John Adams resided there. [According to the Nov-1914 Journal of American Ancestry]

According to a descendant of Aman Guion, Bruce Guion Smith, "The Guion homestead, in Pleasantville, NY, where I grew up, is purported to have been a stop on the underground railroad to Canada. In fact, in the 1930s, during road construction, a tunnel was found, connecting the Guion house with the Bell house, about 300 yards away. My father, who worked on the road project, and my grandmother, who lived in the house as a girl, attested that the story is true. My grandmother said that she was forbidden to go in the tunnel and it was eventually sealed and forgotten. The house still stands, on the corner of Bedford Road and Guion Street, in Pleasantville.

Mr. Drake, while traveling in Florida, stayed in the home of Captain Peter Bertleson where he met some locals who sought investment dollars for the creation of a hotel in Sebastian. The venture failed, and the land which was used as collateral, became his property. Drake formed a company called them Sebastian River Improvement Company, He reserved for himself and his three partners [Messers Underhill, Bissell, and Todd] a parcel of five acres each on the Sebastian River between the railroad and Ercildoune. They built a hunting lodge, and would come south during the season to hunt and fish. Mr. Drake's enthusiasm for gardening resulted in the planting of many silver oaks and dark cedars still found today in Roseland. Purchased 12,000 acres of land in Florida to create Sebastian Inlet State Park in Brevard and Indian Rivers Counties.
